A BioBlitz is traditionally a 24-hour event in which scientists and members of the public find and identify as many local species as possible. Fernald's "Mini-BioBlitz" will be a different version of this, lasting 2 hours rather than 24, and is just to get your feet wet (which could actually happen). Fernald will be hosting Mini-BioBlitzes throughout the year. Participate in bona fide research and learn from experts about the importance of biodiversity.

Join us as we explore the fields and forest in search of spring wildflowers and budding trees on this 3-mile leisurely stroll.
